Paul is trapped in the worst cult the United States has ever seen. Infected with a zombie virus, symptoms culminate in a dead body but thriving mind over a course of twelve weeks. If he doesnt earn the final death he longs for, hell be chained in a basement facility, moaning for human flesh for eternity. Sent out to kidnap girls for food, toys, or whatever the boss wants, Paul nabs Heather McCain. Hes not a fan of humans as a general rule, but even his graying skin and insatiable hunger for her flesh dont stop her from reaching out to him. Give him the second chance he doesnt know he needs. Overcome by his cravings, Paul bites her delectable skin. Amazingly, she doesnt develop the zombie-like side effects. When the boss discovers Heathers immunity, he gives Paul an ultimatum deliver up Heather and her family to continue the research or watch as Pauls brother suffers the zombie fate. Paul has a chance to endure his short zombie existence knowing his brother is safe. But hell have to sacrifice Heather to do it. Falling Apart, book #2 This series is sequential and should not be read out of order.  This is ADULT THEMED and for MATURE YA audiences. Language and content is - again - mature. Days slip through Pauls graying fingers. Humanity faces the end. His brother has the virus and is dying, too. Pauls hopes ride on Heathers genetic code. Her immunity leaves her unchanged and untouchable. What would she see in the zombie he was becoming anyway? Dominics army of infected grows, capturing the south and leaving little alive in its wake. While Paul and his friends work on the vaccine, protecting the north becomes protecting the world. Heather is taken hostage and Paul races toward Dominic to save his heart. With his time alive shortened, Paul must do more than protect the uninfected. He has to get his brother and Heather back to Sandpoint before the zombies find them. Paul needs to survive the upcoming war before he finds himself defecting to the other side and leaving Heather to Dominics mercy. He has three days to get the cure or he might as well find a fire to call home. Mostly Dead, book #3 This series is sequential and should not be read out of order. Time is running out and Pauls original wish for death looms. As his skin grays and hunger becomes uncontrollable, the world burns. Heather and Paul have fallen for each other, but with life and death barricading them apart, and the potential cure disappearing into time, they have no hope. Pauls hunger is all-consuming. He has to walk into the flames, join Dominic, or eat everyone he loves. Can he save anyone, if not himself? Viral Intent, Prequel Dominic has no remorse, no guilt, and his righteous justification swells as his research goes unchecked. Theres someone Dominic wants to save, and he may have the cure. But now he needs test subjects. He creates a virus that brings about the zombie apocalypse. Theres no excuse for how he treats Paul and humanity itself, but understanding the man might shed light on the evolution of the virus that brings Paul and Heather together.
